Bojangles has a Young Audience Problem

45+

Average age skew of today's Bojangles audience

Strong Southern brand. Aging customer base.

Heritage base is loyal, but it's graying.

Southeast super-fans still show up. New generations largely don't

National expansion hits a cold market.

~1 new restaurant opens per week (in cities that don't know the brand)

Gen Z lives somewhere Bojangles isn't.

TikTok, Instagram, creator culture, live sports reactions — not CMS banners

What This Partnership Needs To Do Next

Three outcomes define success for Bojangles × Tepper moving forward:

01

Win Gen Z

Turn college students and young fans into Bojangles regulars

02

Grow the app

Move daily behavior into the Bojangles app. The hub for rewards, deals, and engagement.

03

Convert Fans

Turn TSE game days into measurable food purchases and repeat visits from new customers.

Gen Z Doesn't Respond to Ads: They Create Culture

Creators

Trust peers + influencers over brands

Social-first

Discover food, trends, and fandom in-feed

Real-time

Live moments drive conversation and commerce

Game Day is a Content + Food Moment

Fans aren't just watching games — they're performing, posting, and ordering all at once.

2nd Screen

Watching + Scrolling

Fans consume the game with a phone in hand: TikTok, group chats, live threads

Live Reax

Reacting in Real-Time

Big plays turn into memes, stitches, and posts within seconds of the whistle

From Sponsor to Participant

TODAY

A logo on the scoreboard

TOMORROW

A real-time, social-first sports brand

- Live content tied to live sport moments
- Creator-led, youth-forward storytelling
- App-first rewards with measurable uplift
- Part of fan culture, not adjacent to it

How We Measure Success

Scaled to what Bojangles actually cares about → high-level metrics that can be repeated and compared.

SALES

Did fans actually buy?

- Offer redemptions per game
- Store visits attributed to drops
- Uplift vs. non-game day baseline
- Boneless + LTO trial rate

DIGITAL

Is the app growing?

- App downloads per campaign
- Daily + weekly active users
- Push notification open rate
- Prediction + challenge participation

SOCIAL

Did we move culture?

- Estimated views (primary KPI)
- Creator content volume
- Earned UGC posts
- Hashtag + mention velocity

Why This Is Realistic

Uses the existing app

No new platform build. Bojangles is already leveling up the app this year → these ideas plug right in

Uses existing partnerships

Panthers, Charlotte FC, and BoA Stadium are already signed partners. No new deals required to launch

Scalable and repeatable

Each activation scales across seasons, markets, and sports. Build once → run every week

Flexible with licensing

Player lineups can rotate. IP rights already exist with teams. Minimal legal lift for season one

LOW LIFT · HIGH UPSIDE · READY FOR KICKOFF
